

A large, light gray rectangular area is positioned in the center of the page, serving as a workspace for writing. It is defined by a diagonal line on its right side. Within this gray area, there are seven horizontal black lines spaced evenly, providing a guide for text entry.

